Welcome to Jellian Services LLC, a distinguished establishment specializing in the meticulous restoration of residential homes, preparing them for a seamless transition back into the market. Before embarking on this transformative journey with us, it is of paramount importance to delve deeply into the intricacies of our terms and conditions. This document is crafted to be a comprehensive guide, shedding light on the nuances, responsibilities, and commitments intrinsic to our collaborative venture.

Section 1: Tailored Excellence for Discerning Homeowners

Distinctive Services

Our suite is not generic; it's bespoke for homeowners seeking comprehensive property restoration. Crafted with precision, our services are tailored to reintroduce your property to the market. More than a tagline, our commitment is foundational. We breathe new life into properties, aligning every aspect of our engagement with the explicit intent of delivering excellence. Beyond a transaction, our approach is comprehensive.

We collaborate closely, ensuring every detail aligns with your vision. This personalized attention distinguishes our services as a transformative partnership. Our services go beyond visible issues, adopting a holistic approach. Anticipating and resolving challenges, we guarantee a restoration that stands the test of time, enhancing your property's market value.

Section 2: Contractual Agreement

Formation of Contract

Upon the decision to engage our services, a contractual agreement becomes the bedrock of our partnership. This legal instrument intricately defines the scope of our services and delineates the responsibilities of both parties involved. Jellian Services LLC commits to covering the expenses associated with restoring your home, including but not limited to materials and labor.

Financial Reciprocity

In return, the homeowner assumes the commitment of reimbursing Jellian Services LLC for all expenditures incurred during the restoration process. This encompasses a transparent breakdown of costs, ensuring that every financial facet is comprehensible. To secure this agreement, a lien will be placed on the affiliated property, acting as both a legal safeguard and an assurance that the financial aspects of the contract will be diligently honored.

Section 3: Contractual Fulfillment

Estimation Process

In alignment with the stipulations of the contract, the homeowner is presented with a detailed estimate. This estimate encompasses all project-related costs, meticulously breaking down expenses related to labor, materials, and any unforeseen contingencies. The purpose is not merely financial transparency but to empower the homeowner with a comprehensive understanding of the financial commitment associated with the restoration process.

Initial Payment and Subsequent Installments

The homeowner is required to make an initial payment. This initial payment is substantial, amounting to 50% of the regular rent or lease payment per rent/lease term. It is expected to be paid promptly after the property is rented or leased. This initial payment serves as a commitment from the homeowner and signifies the commencement of the restoration project. Following the initial payment, the homeowner agrees to make subsequent monthly payments.

These monthly payments will continue until the fulfillment of the contract.

Each installment contributes to the holistic restoration process, indicating that the funds are earmarked for the ongoing renovation or improvement of the property. The term "holistic restoration process" suggests a comprehensive approach to rejuvenating or enhancing the property, potentially involving various aspects such as appearance improvements, aesthetic upgrades, or functional enhancements.

The payment plan is tied to the fulfillment of a contract, which implies that there is a specific agreement or understanding in place outlining the scope of the restoration project, the duration of the payments, and any other relevant terms. Once the homeowner completes all the required payments, the contract is considered fulfilled. The entire payment structure is based on mutual agreement between the parties involved, likely the homeowner and the property owner or manager. This mutual agreement signifies that both parties have consented to the terms and conditions outlined in the contract.

Section 4: Termination and Immediate Payment

In the dynamic realm of real estate, uncertainties and changes are inevitable. In recognition of this, we have incorporated provisions that address various scenarios. In the event of the property being sold, leased, or the contract terminated prematurely, the homeowner is obligated to expediently pay the remaining contract amount in full. This uncompromising provision is designed to ensure that Jellian Services LLC is duly compensated for its exhaustive and dedicated restoration services.

Section 5: Property Damage and Insurance Compensation

Realizing that unexpected events such as fire or accidents may pose a threat to the restored property, we have incorporated a safeguard. Should the property suffer damage, Jellian Services LLC is entitled to full compensation from the insurance claim. This strategic measure is not only a financial safety net but also a testament to our commitment to protecting the fruits of our labor and investments in the restoration process.

Section 6: Conflict Resolution and Liens

In the intricate tapestry of contractual engagements, conflicts can arise. To address this eventuality, Jellian Services LLC retains the right to place a lien on the home or property in cases of non-payment or disputes. This strategic measure is not an adversarial gesture but a protective mechanism to secure our interests in the face of potential disputes, ensuring that our commitment to excellence is not compromised.

Section 7: Legal Recourse for Contractual Violations

The strength of any contractual agreement lies not just in the words on paper but in the enforceability of its terms. To underscore the gravity of the commitments outlined in the contract, failure on the part of the homeowner to comply with the terms will trigger legal action. This action is not merely punitive but serves to establish the full extent of the agreement, reinforcing the importance of honoring contractual obligations and maintaining a fair and equitable partnership.

In conclusion

At Jellian Services LLC, our commitment extends far beyond the realms of traditional home restoration. We are dedicated to preparing properties for resounding success in the real estate market. By entering into this comprehensive agreement, both parties commit not only to the fulfillment of contractual obligations but to the cultivation of a robust and mutually beneficial partnership. We express our sincere gratitude for the trust you place in our services and eagerly anticipate the opportunity to collaborate closely, bringing your property back to its zenith.
